

Indros Technologies*Dedicated Web project development center for Indros Technologies

Over the last five years, the founders of Indros Technologies (A New York based technology company) extensively researched consumer buying behavior patterns on the Internet. After developing a number of theories about online consumer buying patterns, they set out to design a best-in-breed suite of e-Business tools designed to help organizations overcome the inadequacies of e-Retailing and e-Marketing.

Combining experience in the IT, Retail and Advertising industries, the founders leveraged their vast network of resources to sow the seeds of what would become Indros Technologies. The Indros team achieved what most other advertising and online sales solution providers had failed to accomplish: a low cost, dynamic and easy-to-use e-Business solution that gained the attention of major companies throughout the retail, wholesale and manufacturing industries. When the time came to create progressive Web sites for their clients, Indros Technologies was a step ahead of the rest in its IT infrastructure, e-Business intelligence and e-Marketing expertise.

After setting the mission of developing low cost quality web solutions, Indros Technologies started the extensive search for the offshore technology partner who can share their vision. Indros wanted to leverage on their e-Marketing knowledge to quickly grab the customers in the market while the project development issues to be handled by technology partner.

After testing ADCC with few small web projects in the initial phase, today IndrosTech Technologies is ADCC's one of the most valued clients. IndrosTech involved ADCC consultants right from the selling phase. Once client is grabbed by IndroTech, ADCC takes care of complete project management upto the hosting of the websites.

IndrosTech's commitment in ADCC is reflected in development of 18 websites in a span of four months.
